Year 11 Homework Timetable, 2026-2027

Subject	Minimum Time allocated (minutes)
English	120
Maths	120
Science	180
Option P	90
Option A	90
Option B	90
Option C	90

The table outlines the minimum amount of homework that should be set per fortnight in each subject (approximately 70 minutes per night if it was evenly spread across the 2 weeks.) If at all possible, homework will not be set for the next day. This allows students to plan the use of their time effectively.

Students should also be allocating time to the completion of past paper questions and revision in preparation for examinations. This may be directed by subject staff or independent revision.

Homework Information

As you mature at secondary school, you are expected to prepare for a range of assessments and develop independent study skills. Homework helps you to develop these skills as you go through school, so you develop good lifelong learning skills for the future.

Homework plays an important role in training you to:

- learn by practice (repetition and rehearsal is good for long term memory development).
- develop good learning habits and independence.
- deepen your knowledge by encouraging further research and reading of topics.
- build you competence and confidence so that you can demonstrate your knowledge, understanding and talents.
- understand the importance of meeting deadlines and being organised

Setting of homework

Homework is set and placed on assignments on Microsoft® Teams. If you have any problems with your log in then you need to inform your tutor.

Make sure you:

- Listen carefully in lessons when homework is given to the advice and information given by your teacher.
- Be organised and take responsibility. Make sure you know you log in details for Microsoft® Teams and online resources such as Sparx (Maths) and Seneca so you can refer to them.

Completing Homework, and establishing good routines

- Get into good homework habits. Get into a routine - do your homework as soon as you get home OR have a break first then settle down to do it. Do not leave your homework until late in the evening.
- Do not let your homework build up. Just because it is not due in immediately there is no reason why you cannot start it or get it out of the way. Leaving homework until the night before can cause a last-minute rush and a lot of avoidable stress for you and your parents.
- Find somewhere that is warm, comfortable and has good lighting – no distractions!
- Take pride in your homework. Think about presentation – include the title Homework, the date and the title of your homework and underline with a ruler. it is important. If you put effort into your work, it will be noticed. You will feel good about your achievements and the teacher will be pleased with your efforts.
- Remember to check your work when you have finished. We all make careless mistakes. Have you written what you meant to write. Check have you used the correct key words. It can help to read a written piece out aloud.
- A reminder you should clear out your school bag each day and make sure you are organised for the next day with the CORE 4.

Support

- If you find a piece of homework too difficult: Read back over the work, you have done in class and the information the teacher has given with the homework. It can help to read things twice. Look up any words you do not understand.
- Your parents/carers should have access to the School Connection feature via their own Teams account. They can use this to monitor and support you with homework - you can ask a family member for their advice and help as well as asking them to proofread/check your work when you have finished and respond to the advice, they give you.
- You can see a teacher in school or ask a Teaching Assistant.
- Do not give up too easily- there are always reference books, dictionaries, the Library, and the internet. Try and have a go at the homework. Teachers will always be pleased that you have attempted the homework. This shows great character and resilience.
- If you are finding it difficult to do your homework and meet deadlines, please ask about Homework Hub. Ask your tutor for information about this.
- You can use the library to do your homework, check with Mrs Codner, the librarian if it is available.
- Some subjects will offer homework support sessions at lunchtimes or after school, please speak to your subject teacher about these sessions.

Feedback

Teachers will give you feedback on your work, this will frequently be given verbally in lessons individually or as a class, and some will be written.

When doing your homework think back and remember the advice you have been given. Look back in your book at teacher comments/targets. Try to avoid making the same mistakes.

It is important you respond to your teacher's advice so that you make progress.

Extra-curricular.

Teachers will give lots of tips in lessons and give up their time to offer many extra-curricular activities for you to attend, please refer to the Student Briefing Sheet (SBS). If you finish your homework quickly or want something else to do there are several things that you can do:

1. Look for a new club to join, use the SBS to find something new and give it a go. Be open to trying new things.
2. Do some extra independent research on the topic/s that you are covering at school that you are interested in.
3. Visit the online Library, research the internet.
4. Read a book, you have been given lots of suggestions already and our librarian will help you find even more books.

Make the most of the opportunities there are at Heber.
